

BUILDING YOUR YOUNG LIVING BUSINESS WITH INTEGRITY

Duplicate Accounts – Policies and Procedures 3.3: Same Household Sales Organizations and Duplicate Accounts

As a general rule, Young Living does not permit members to have financial interest in more than one account. If a member has financial interest in more than one account, that account is considered a duplicate.

Who is not allowed to be associated with more than one YL account?

- Married individuals who want to create separate accounts after marriage
- If a business has an account, the business owner, manager, or spouse of the business owner
- A child younger than 16
- The parent of a child with a minor account if the parent manages the account, sales, organization, and/or forms of payment
- A member managing an account for a member who is not willing or able to manage his or her own account, sales organization, and/or form of payment
- An existing member who wants to create an additional account with his/her maiden/married name. (If a member has a legal name change, he/she should contact accountupdates@youngliving.com instead of creating an additional account with the new legal name.)
- A member/business owner with an existing Young Living account who wants to create and control a separate business account

Who is allowed to be associated with more than one YL account?

The following situations are permitted if each member is managing his/her own account, sales organization, and/or form of payment:

- A parent and child in the same household may both have accounts if the child is at least 16 years old and has a Conduct Minor-approved account. The child must manage the account, sales organization, and form of payment. Additionally, the child will need to resign the member agreement when he/she turns 18.
- A parent and a child who is over the age of 18
- Unmarried individuals who live in the same household
- Spouses whose accounts were created prior to being married. (If one of those accounts goes inactive; however, it cannot be reactivated.)

A retail customer who would like to enroll as a member must contact Member Services.

If you have a duplicate account you would like to resolve or if you notice a duplicate account within a Young Living organization, please email duplicates@youngliving.com.
