

Vetiver

Product Size 5 ml

Item No. 33355

Vetiver essential oil's aroma is earthy, eclectic, and exotic. It originates from a perennial grass native to the tropical regions in Asia. Because Vetiver is steam distilled from the plant's root, the oil has a smoky, woody scent. It was used in ancient times, and the oil's popularity still exists as a key ingredient in cologne, fragrances, soaps, and moisturisers.

Vetiver

Product Background

Vetiver is a perennial bunchgrass from the Poaceae family and is native to India. The plant's roots can grow 7–10 feet long, and their deep, tangled webs help make the plant tolerant against drought and protect against soil erosion. The essential oil is extracted from the plant's root through steam distillation. Centuries ago, vetiver was a taxable commodity in India because of its unique value and benefits.
