

Interactive games for hosts—online group

1. Last one to comment:

Make a post that gives attendees a category and have them name products that fall into that category. Give people an opportunity to comment until they run out of products. Category examples include Vitality™ oils, shades of Savvy Minerals® lipstick, floral oils, etc. The last person to comment with a correct answer wins! You can play as many rounds as you want or time allows for. Tip: Choose a category that relates to something else you want to talk about during your event.

Materials:

-Lists of items that fall into a particular category. The lists need to be objective and definite.

2. Favorites of Young Living photo contest:

Ask those who are attending your online event to post a photo or comment listing their favorite YL product and how they use it. This will give beginners an idea of go-to products and can introduce other members to products they might not be familiar with. After a certain amount of time, choose a random number, find the comment that correlates with that number, and announce the winner! Tip: To get beginners involved, ask them to post which product they look forward to trying the most. That way they can still participate even if they don't already use YL products.

Materials:

-Random number generator (linked here)

3. What do YOU want to know?:

Ask people attending your online event to comment on your post with an assumption that they have about YL, oils, a specific product, etc. This lets you answer any questions that they have about anything and everything related to the Young Living lifestyle. Pick a random number or your favorite question, and that comment wins!

Materials:

-Just be prepared to answer questions!

4. Get ready for a close-up:

Snap close-up photos from interesting angles of various products, post them, and let the guessing begin. Whoever guesses correctly first wins. (Tip: Tie this in with the topics or products you're focusing on for the event, a product you want to sell more of, something you want to discuss, etc.)

Materials:

-Digital camera/phone

-Young Living products
