FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Q. Why does the Progessence Plus bottle include a warning that an ingredient in this product causes cancer?

A. We appreciate your concern regarding California's Proposition 65 warnings, which are legally required on this product. Proposition 65 requires that products sold in California that carry any ingredients deemed to the California legislature to be hazardous to health must carry the warning you see on our label.

In the case of this product, California requires the warning on all progesterone-containing products. However, California law does not distinguish between the synthetic medroxyprogesterone, which is the cause of California's concern, and the natural progesterone that we derive from yams and is widely used in the health industry. Both are generically referred to as "progesterone," which is the ingredient name on California's list. If you would like further information on this topic, we recommend that you contact your health care professional.

Q. Can women of any age use this product?

A. Progessence Plus can be used by women of all ages, but it is ideal for women over 30. Dosage and duration of use with this product can vary based on individual needs. We recommend consulting with a health care provider before using this product.
